Central Coast Live Local Music App

Central Coast Live, a locally based broadcast media company, is trying to bring central coast bands right into the palm of your hand.

The idea is to create a Pandora-style mobile app with a local focus. It will feature Central Coast bands, allowing anyone to watch live and local performances on the go.

The company is also in the process of launching a radio station which will provide an inside scoop on the local music scene featuring music interviews and in-studio mini concerts.

The company is currently partnered with D'Anbinos Downtown tasting room in Paso Robles. If you go to their website, you can watch the live feeds talent performing there from anywhere around the world with internet access.

If you would like to check out their website and their progress on these items, visit www.centralcoastlive.com
